OUT ON THE LIMB with George Vierhus

ELECTION YEAR always means that the desks of the newspapers are flooded with publicity releases extolling the virtues of the various candidates seeking public office.

An entire paper the size of The Campbell Press could easily be filled with the releases the office receives each week.

And there would be stuff left over.

Unfortunately (for the candidates) there is no possible way to utilize all the reams of material that is received.

There is no beginning and there seems to be no end.

The mimeographs keep grinding away and will fall farther and farther behind in our campaign reading. We must confess that we can only give a passing glance at much of the stuff. It would be a full-time job to do otherwise.

WE ARE WELL AWARE that by following this routine we miss out on some honest-to-goodness authentic material that would be highly informative.

On the other hand, there is so much that is repetitious that it is quite a task to find any little gems that may be hidden among the verbage.

We imagine those public relation people who have been sweating over their hot typewriters will hate us for these remarks.

But they don't have to wade through the efforts of a whole raft of PR's. They just write the stuff.

But, honestly, we do appreciate that it is a job that must be done, if a candidate is going to make his platform known to the electorate.

And the PR people, on the whole, do a good job of getting the messages across. They fill a necessary niche and it would be pretty difficult to get along without 'em.

Even if it does mean some extra heavy reading on our part.

APPROACHES of the campaign drum-beaters vary considerably.

While most of the releases on the merits of the various candidates follow the strict pattern of basic news stories, some try the more subtle or personal approach to the editor.

Sometimes these personal approaches back-fire.

As a f'instance: We received a notice recently concerning the press coverage for Ronald Reagan when he was in Santa Clara.

The envelope was addressed: "Campbell Press, Harry Farrell, Campbell, Calif."

THE MEMO was also addressed to Harry Farrell with this handwritten note at the bottom: "Harry, Have your tickets at door."

For the uninformed, Harry Farrell is the Special census reveals

Campbell's population increases by 78% in six years since 1960

In the space of the six years since the last federal census, Campbell has shown a 78% increase in population, according to the recent countywide census, dubbed Countdown 66.

Campbell, according to the special census just completed, now has a population of 21,221 to rank eighth among the 16 cities of the county. In 1960 the population of Campbell was 11,863. Since then the population has increased by 9,358 persons.

A total of 919,898 people live in the county as of April 1 which is an increase of 277,600 persons, or 43%, since 1960 when The U. S. Census counted a total of 277,600 residents.

Most of the county gain occurred in the City of San Jose which now has 359,602 people a gain of 56.8% since 1960.

The second largest city in the county now is Sunnyvale with 84,824 persons, closely followed by Santa Clara with 82,482.

Three cities in the county, Milpitas, Cupertino, and Los Gatos, have doubled their population since 1960. Milpitas really jumped, going from 6,572 in 1960 to 19,834 today to rank ninth among the 16 cities in the county. In 1960 Milpitas was in eleventh place. Cupertino in the six years went from 3,664 to 12,043 for the eleventh position. In 1960 it was twelfth.

Although Los Gatos doubled its population in the last six years, going from 9,036 to 18,591, that city is now the tenth largest city in the county. In 1960, Los Gatos ranked ninth.

Gilroy, too, dropped in ranking from tenth to twelfth, although showing a big increase in population from 7,348 to 10,258.

Alviso only gained 138 people in six years and now has a population of 1,312 compared to 1,169 in 1960.

An interesting sidelight of 'Countdown 66'

Council acts on four ordinances Tuesday, May 31

Four proposed ordinances are expected to get final approval of the City Council on Tuesday, May 31, when the Council holds its next meeting.

The regular meeting of the City Council was scheduled for Monday, May 23, but council members were attending an institute conducted by the League of California Cities in Monterey.

As Monday, May 30 is a holiday, the Council will assemble on Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the council chambers.

The ordinances expected to be adopted May 31 include (1) directing utilities to be placed underground; (2) annexation of Lovell 1962-2; (3) zone change at Bascom-Apricot; and (4) vote change on overruling Planning Commission actions.

The Council is also expected to discuss the request of Chez and Grattan, developers of property on Hamilton Ave., that a left-lane turning signal be installed at Darrell Drive, a new street, that will intersect with Hamilton Ave. and where a shipping center is planned.

Bids are scheduled to be reviewed and the

As annual event

Creek project gets city boost

Pleased with the results of last month's Campbell Clean-Up Crusade which concentrated on improving the Los Gatos Creek area, the City Council's beautification committee plans to recommend that it become an annual event each spring.

Every effort should be made in the planning and organizing of the "crusade" to obtain cooperation from every segment of the community, the committee has indicated.

The committee also recommends that a fall clean-up campaign be instituted in conjunction with the free trash pickup service offered by Los Gatos Scavenger Co. However, committee members felt that the fall program should be on an individual home-owner basis with the communitywide effort concentrated on the spring campaign.

The council's beautification committee, headed by Vice-Mayor Ed Rogers with Councilmen Bill Smeed and Charles Rose as members, met last week to review the results of the first clean-up crusade. The committee's recommendation is ex-

Governor's wife tours creek area

WHAT CAN BE DONE --Mrs. Edmund G Brown, wife of the governor, as chairman of the Governor's Advisory Committee on California Beauty, was scheduled to tour the 170-acre Vasona Park today as part of a four-day tour of exceptional projects developed in California.

Mrs. Brown was also to be shown the unimproved Los Gatos Creek area by Campbell city officials as a sort of "before and after" illustration.

Rejected, neglected, dejected

With its red paint fading, its doors sagging and its window panes missing, the red house-by-the-side-of-the-road on heavily-traveled Bascom Ave. in Campbell pictured here sort of kicks Campbell's 'image' in the teeth every day.

Literally thousands of commuters, out-of-town visitors and local residents traverse Bascom from Campbell Ave. to Hamilton Ave. daily.

The appearance of the uninhabited, forlorn and rundown house it is alleged even depresses those hardened souls who take bumper-to-bumper traveling as a way of life.

Many maintain that nothing is as sad as a once-neat house that is deteriorating before their eyes. They try to avoid such sorrowful spectacles.

But when the deterioration takes place on one of the main drags of the city, it is a little difficult to avoid it.

The red house-by-the-side-of-the-road deserves a better fate than that.

There are many loyal residents who have indicated that they feel Campbell does too.

Editorial

A new launching pad

In order for a city such as Campbell to develop and progress in an orderly and efficient manner there must be a guide-line established in which specific objectives are included with a time-table for reaching the objectives.

In a stabilized community where the growth has leveled off, a guide-line or "master plan", if you will, can be projected into the future and can be followed with only slight modifications.

Unfortunately, in communities such as Campbell, in an explosive growth area, "master plans" soon become out-dated which makes it necessary that another hard look into the crystal ball must be taken.

This describes the situation in which the City of Campbell finds itself at the present time, if one over-simplifies the problem.

After much study and research in January, 1961, a "general plan" for the City of Campbell was adopted. It was, supposedly, as specified a "comprehensive, long term general plan for the physical development of the City of Campbell and its environs".

Some of the policies and objectives listed, of course, were basic ones. They could apply today as well as five years ago.

For example, the 1961 plan indicated that population pressure in 20 years would force the development of high density housing with the higher density developments being located near major intersections or freeways.

The plan indicated that enough land was already zoned commercially, but possibly not in the proper location and that commercial areas should be provided in each of the neighborhoods.

The plan also suggested that there should be an expansion of industrial zoning and that at least 250 acres of industrial land would be an asset to the city and give it a better economic balance.

The plan also indicated that public school playgrounds should be utilized as a part of the necessary available parks and open space, but there should be at least 300 acres of park and recreation area distributed throughout the community.

The general plan of 1961 was valuable in that it did provide a guide for the future of the city; provided, of course, that the "future" followed a set pattern.

Unfortunately, that has not been the case.

So, now just five years later, it is necessary to up-date, modify, amend or radically change the entire guide-line to be more in keeping with what has taken place and what may take place based on new facts and figures.

Or even a new crystal ball.

It is obvious that the general plan of 1961 is no longer adequate as a guide to the Planning Commission, the City Council or property owners.

The population of Campbell since the adoption of the general plan in 1961 has doubled, and there has been substantial physical development that was not foreseen five years ago.

Problem areas have developed in the city which require special study and the additional growth requires additional city services and facilities for which plans should be made.

Because of these factors, the City Council, upon the recommendation of the Planning Commission, has decided to embark on a planning study with the aid of a planning consulting firm and a grant from the federal government.

Although we recognize that such a project is going to take time (approximately 18 months to two years), we are confident that it will be time and money well spent.

We commend the city administration for this action.

We know of no other way that the needs and objectives can be ascertained. All of us are stockholders in the corporation and, as stockholders of any corporation would be, we are opposed to hit or miss planning or trying to operate from an out-dated guide book.

Specifically the new planning program would:

1. Develop specific plans for the problem areas in the city.
2. Develop space needs and locations for civic center and other public facilities.
3. Prepare plans for parks and beautification.
4. Revise traffic circulation plans where needed.
5. Prepare a capital improvement program based on plans developed.
6. Revise the zoning and subdivision ordinances.

We realize that this is a big order but we maintain it is a necessary one and one that our community must have, if it is to develop and progress in an orderly and efficient manner.

There will be those, of course, who will argue that what assurance is there that this new general plan will not become as out-dated as the previous one before the objectives can be realized.

Our answer to that is that we are convinced that the city administration is now in a position to follow specific guide-lines, provided the guide-lines are realistic and well researched.

Unfortunately this was not the case five years ago.

We commend the city administration in its efforts to establish a new launching pad.

All of us stockholders will benefit from it.

"PICK-ME-UP" is the term that can be used to describe a letter we received recently from John Billmeyer.

The contents of John's brief missive counteracts to a great degree the discouragement we often feel about whether we are "getting through" to people.

The journalism profession is supposedly made up to a great extent of cynics who build up a sort of hard-shell resistance to idealism in any form.

That is until one gets a letter like the one we did from John.

As it ranks as one of the nicest letters we have ever received, we gratefully share it with you:

"DEAR GEORGE,

"The City of Campbell is fortunate to have a publication that within its design cherishes the betterment of Campbell. We are the benefactors of the many hours which you devote to this city, through endless opinions and improvement campaigns, that you contribute through The Campbell Press.

"Your benefits are few, but it must be rewarding to see a product, such as the clean-up of the Los Gatos Creek, take shape, and know that you furnished the momentum to complete the job.

"I know you'll continue and I know we'll live in a better Campbell because of you.

Sincerely,
John E. Billmeyer"

SEE WHAT WE MEAN? How can one be cynical after that?

Thank you, John.

We hope we can continue to merit your confidence.

VOLLEY-BALL, as we have noted in previous columns, has developed into quite a hazardous athletic activity.

The latest victim of this dangerous sport is TOM PERRY, a member of the Planning Commission.

Tom, a faculty member of West Valley College, participated in the recent volley-ball game staged at West Valley College which set the new (and only) world record for continuous play.

As you may or may not recall, the students at West Valley established the record over a period of days with players taking part in shifts both day and night.

Even the faculty cooperated and joined in to keep the ball-game going.

As one esteemed instructor explained, he thought it was far better than the goldfish eating episode or even the telephone-booth packing fad of his own college days.

AS FAR AS we know Tom Perry was the only real casualty in the record-setting sessions.

A smash over the net smacked Tom right in the eye, shattering his glasses and resulting in a nifty shiner.

No lasting damage was done to Tom's eye apparently because his glasses furnished some protection.

But he had to explain for days that he received his shiner in a volley-ball game.

Proudly adding, of course, that it was not an ordinary game.

It was a world record event.

pected to be made to the City Council at the next meeting.

Concerned with the need of trees throughout the city, the committee is also expected to suggest as a policy matter that the city require trees to be planted on major streets before approval is granted any new development.

Any improvement program for the Los Gatos Creek area should follow the county's master plan, the committee indicated, and it is felt that the city's major effort should be concerned with the west bank of the creek. County agencies would be involved mostly on the channel area of the creek.

PHONE LINE CREW - A horse-drawn cart served as the mobile workshop for this turn-of-the-century Pacific Telephone line crew. The last horse line patrol was discontinued in 1906. This photo was taken near San Jose.

Campbell exchange grows since 1897 to over 35,000 phones

Telephone service came to California in 1877, just one short year after Alexander Graham Bell's invention of the instrument which changed the world of communications.

The telephone exchange in Campbell opened in 1897, the 119th exchange in California.

Two years later the directory showed there were a grand total of nine subscribers.

Early in the exchange's history, the switchboard was located in the parlor of the chief operator's residence.

Her living quarters were in the other four rooms of the house.

As the exchange and community grew, the size of the telephone staff increased. At one time, three of the seven operators on duty in Campbell had more than 20 years of service each at the same stand.

Today, Campbell exchange numbers over 35,000 of the county's half-million telephones.

Growth of the local communities has been reflected in the equal expansion of Pacific Telephone. Today the company has more than eight and a half million telephones in California and Nevada.

The company was an outgrowth of the early days of telephone service when small companies formed, merged or sold out to other phone operations.

The present Pacific Telephone dates back to 1906; although the name pre-dated formation by 17 years.

It was changed in 1900 when the company absorbed the Oregon and Inland Telephone Co. and became known as the Pacific States Telephone and Telegraph Co.

The combining of Pacific States and Sunset Telephone Co., which operated in Oregon, Nevada, Washington, Utah and Wyoming, led to Pacific Telephone in 1906.

Subsequent changes, some as late as 1961, have reduced Pacific Telephone's operating area to California and Nevada.

Early company records are few as most were destroyed in the earthquake and fire in San Francisco in 1906.

However, it is known that the first "long distance" call was made between San Francisco and San Jose in 1883.

Also, corporate headquarters at 140 New Montgomery St. in San Francisco is the same location where the first exchange in California was situated back in 1878.

THE HALF-MILLIONTH - The recipients of the 500,000th Pacific Telephone instrument in Santa Clara County accept it from General Manager Carl Stubenrauch (right). The couple, Mr. and Mrs. John Oliver of San Jose, will keep the engraved set.

The installation of the engraved telephone, in the couple's new home at 854 Midvale Lane, San Jose, was part of the program commemorating the installation of the 500,000th phone in the county. Highlight of the program was a telephone call to Vienna, Austria, which also will install its 500,000th phone this month.

'Inadequate facilities' at WV College rapped

High praise for the faculty and administration, and deep dismay for the "inadequate facilities" at the temporary Campbell campus of West Valley College were the twin keynotes sounded by the Western Association of Schools and Colleges.

Dr. Wallace W. Hall, college president, reported these facts to the Board of Trustees Thursday night.

It was verified by board members who had themselves attended an earlier meeting with the team, and by other administrative officials and faculty members.

The team cited what it called "the heroic efforts to make good use of what you have," and urged that "adequate new facilites be provided as soon as possible."

As Trustee William Homan expressed it: "They hit us right in the facilities."

In other matters, the Board:

1). Set commencement exercises for June 17 at 8 p.m. in the college auditorium. So far, there have been 114 applicatants for graduation, many of them students who were in the first class when the College opened its facilities two years ago.

Dr. Robert Clark, president, San Jose State College, will be the commencement speaker, and the invocation will be offered by J. Winter Smith, prominent San Jose civil engineer and civic leader.

2). Heard a report from Dr. Hall that registration is progressing for both summer and fall sessions.

Already, 650 day students and 588 extended day students are enrolled for the summer, while 1,200 day and 224 extended day students are being programmed for the Fall semester.

3). Accepted with thanks gifts of five audio oscillators valued at $125 each and a noise test generator worth $850 from Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.

4). Set a special board meeting for Thursday, June 9 at 5:30 p.m. for the purpose of payment of bills prior to the County Schools Department deadline of June 13 for the current fiscal year.

5). Heard from Dr. Hall that arrangements are being made for setting up classrooms for extended day classes in the Union School District's Dartmouth School, in the Cambrian area.

6). Created the new position of Coordinator of Data Processing for the District, and asked Trustees Jack Armstrong and William Homan, both employed in the field, to aid the president in selection of a person to fill the position.

7). Approved extension of the existing contract with George Novakovich for agricultural lease of additional properties recently purchased at the Saratoga site. The district is paid 30 per cent of the gross income from the sale of the products.

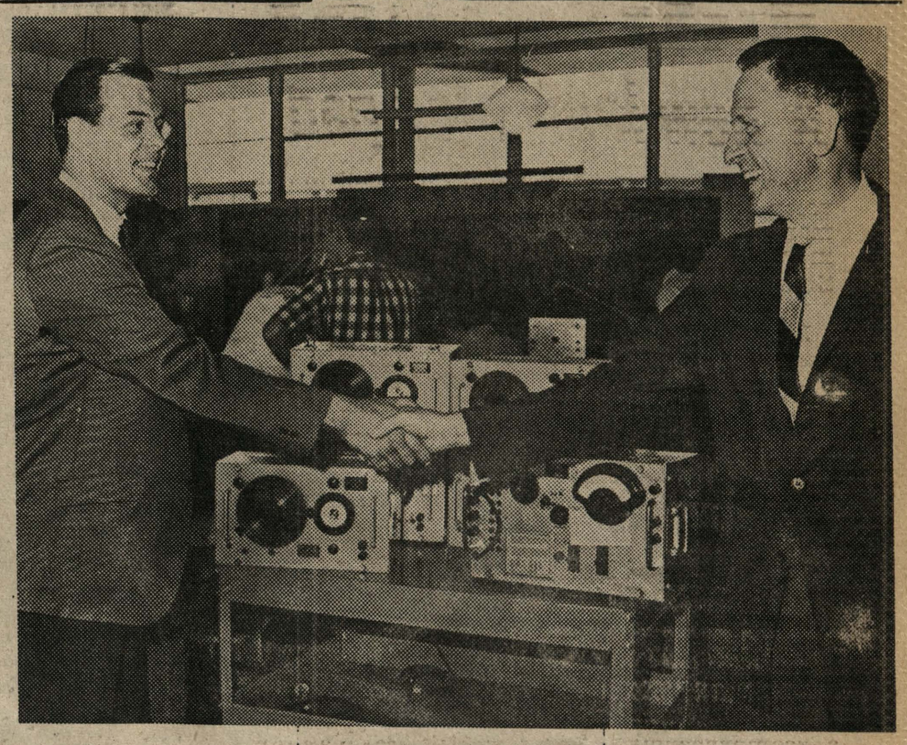
8). Approved bids for furniture for the new portable classrooms, as follows: Tablet arm chairs, $2,089.25, and swivel wood chairs, lecturns and side chairs, $1,706.13, both Fields Co.; instructors desks, $2,104.03, ABC Furniture;

Also, art stools, science stools, Police Science stools and instructors stools, $1,555.54, Holsinger Co.; library chairs, catalogue units, book trucks, periodical index table, circulation desk and library stools, $3,626.04, Fields Co.

9). Authorized purchase of a $385 check signing machine, and purchase, from Cooperative Personnel Services of the California State Personnel Board of pre-prepared tests for classified personnel.

10). Approved hiring of seven new faculty members for the fall semester, including Lowell W. Cummins, American History; Ruth Ann Douglas, biology; William E. Whitney, political science;

Also, Gary A. James, counseling and biological science; Joanne R. Morrison, art; Louis E. Dreyfous, business education, and Alice L. Parsons, physical education.



ELECTRONIC CONTRIBUTION--Recently West Valley College was the recipient of $3500 worth of electronic equipment donated by Pacific Telephone Co. The gift included five oscillators and a noise measuring set for the electronic classes of the college.

"Paris Lights" will come to Campbell Friday night when the junior class presents the annual Junior Prom.

To set the atmosphere, the decorations will have French influence. "I feel that 'Paris Lights" will be a success because of the great amount of work that has gone into it," commented Dave Turner, junior class president.

Refreshments will feature Sparkling Punch and will be served by petite French attired girls.

Pictures will be provided by Don Bosco Studios and will require purchasing only if they are satisfactory.

There will be dinners served preceding the prom at 7:30 p.m.

The big day is fast approaching for those wishing to audition for the summer workshop production of "Brigadoon."

Tuesday, May 31 will be Campbell High's day for auditions. Auditions have been and are being held in all six of the district high schools during this week. Students wishing to audition are to obtain materials from Mr. Larry McCommas and Mr. John Hall.

At auditions, each student will be required to sing any piece of music he wishes; in addition, he will be required to sing a choral piece from the musical itself as well as to read some lines.

This will be a new challenge to students participating in past musicals as this will be the first time they have been required to sing an actual song from the musical.

On Tuesday, May 17, a varsity baseball game was played on the Braves' field against Leigh. Leigh emerged the victor.

Also on Tuesday, our tennis team journeyed to Leigh where they, too, met with defeat.

The frosh/soph baseball team defeated the Campbell Bucs Thursday, May 19, at Blackford. This game adds another win to their undefeated record.

Our tennis men defeated Campbell's tennis team on Thursday; however, the varsity baseball team met with defeat against the Buc's varsity team.

Farm Labor Office will sign-up students for summer work

All high school students are urged to take advantage of one of the three "Sign-Up Saturdays" being set aside by the San Jose Farm Labor Office in May and June for registration of youth interested in summer farm work.

Last year many hundreds of local youths made good money harvesting strawberries, onions, string beans, apricots, raspberries, etc.

Charles Runner, manager of the local Farm Labor Office, urges students to come to his office on Sign-Up Saturdays May 28, June 4 and 11.

Runner states that the office at 1277 N. 15th St., San Jose, will be open each of the Sign-Up Saturdays at 7 a.m. exclusively for the benefit of students.

He cautions students when considering summer work to prepare themselves before the end of the school year by securing Social Security numbers and school work permits, as these are both needed before student workers can begin work.

ON CAPITOL HILL

with "Charlie" Gubser

After 14 years in Washington the ways of the Federal Government should have ceased to amaze me. But not so.

Washington bureaus and agencies spare no expense in preparing and mailing "educational" materials which glorify their own activities. Public relations--at taxpayers' expense--has been developed into a fine art. For example, Agriculture Secretary Freeman recently sent 60 telegrams to Members of Congress which cost $2400.

The identically worded missives could have been mimeographed at a cost of a few dollars and delivered to the Congressmen just six blocks away on one of the regular deliveries by Department of Agriculture messengers.

The Office of Economic Opportunity prepares the most colorful, plentiful and expensive literature selling its own virtues, of any Washington bureau. It has produced colored comic books and slick paper magazines in multi-color designed primarily to justify OEO's existence.

Post Office Department figures for 1965 show the postage paid on third-class mailings (mostly advertising) covers only 68.48% of what they cost. So, third-class mail is subsidized by $302,668,000. Postage collected on second-class mail paid only 35.21% of costs, so magazines like READERS DIGEST and LIFE receive subsidies which run into millions.

I have introduced legislation which would guarantee that a third-class mailing of sample ballots by County Registrars would be handled in the same manner as first-class priority mail.

But here the generosity of the Federal Government suddenly becomes miserly. The Post Office Department has recommended against my bill on the grounds that it discriminates against third-class "junk mail".

Recently the Department added still another insult to past injury by serving notice upon Registrars of Voters that any electronically prepared (IBM) sample ballots could be mailed only at first-class rates. With the great trend toward electronic vote tabulation and the increasing number of such ballots which will be used this really hurt local Registrars.

As the Assembly of the California Legislature pointed out in a recently passed resolution, California's counties have already adopted their budgets on the basis of the usual third-class mail rate for electronically prepared sample ballots and will be forced to find additional funds to cover mailing costs which will almost be doubled.

The mailing of sample ballots is a tremendous undertaking in a fast growing state like California where precinct lines often cannot be drawn until after registration closes. It is unfortunate that the Post Office Department opposes giving this type of mail its highest priority handling and lowest possible rate.

If any mail can justifiably be carried at Federal expense, a sample ballot should head the list. Free elections are the backbone of democracy. If we can justify money to deliver 60 telegrams six blocks away for $2400, then we can find the money for sample ballots to be mailed without charge at the highest priority.

SCHOOL NEEDS

Dear Editor:

Power hungry politicians are destroying our grass roots concept of local school control. I'd like to explore the reasons why.

The public elementary and high schools and junior colleges of California obtain their funds from three sources:

1) Local Taxes - largest amount

2) State of California - second highest

3) Federal Funds--least amount (as it should be).

Regardless of which source the funds are derived from, the laws governing California public schools dictate the guidelines within which local school boards must function.

These laws appear on the books through the efforts of our elected State Senators and Assemblymen. The interplay of State politics with its strong lobbies coupled with a disinterested public, NOW leave the public schools of California in a 'be damned if you do and be damned if you don't' situation.

In short, this election year the public schools of California are being used as a political football. Let me explain; your local elected school boards are levying local taxes that pay the greatest portion of the cost of educating our young people. The State via an equalization formula, distributes State funds to school districts on a per student -attendance basis.

Because there is such a great variation in the wealth of the districts. the equalization program is neither flexible or adequate enough to do the job properly. This should be corrected.

There are other laws on the books from past year's legislation telling school districts they 'MUST' vote to join together within a two year period. If the voters decide in favor of this unification, then the school district gets a $15 per student bonus (some of us call this the 'carrot on the stick' law).

If you, the voters, DO NOT vote to unify, then you are required to vote again within two years, and you do not get the $15 'carrot', unless your vote is favorable to unification.

This whole matter of unification is supposed (1) to equalize the wealth environments throughout the State, (2) to give a broader tax base for the POOR school districts.

Usually, what happens, is increased cost.

1. The highest pay scales are adopted throughout the new unified district.

2. The inefficiencies of Bigness impact the district operation.

3. Finally, what really happens is that local control and local political subdivisions (the local school district), are reduced in number from about 2500 to 350 for the entire state.

It stands to reason that 350 political subdivisions can be politically pressured more easily than 2500.

Furthermore, I know of no situation which has resulted in a local tax reduction because of unification.

The only benefit I can see in unification is that poor school districts with poor education programs 'may' ultimately have a better educational program.

I feel that this unification law should be aired for constitutional violation before the State Supreme Court, and soon.

Unless we take a stand and reverse the unification trend, and have our legislators enact legislation which gives proper equalization to all our public schools, we can kiss the remaining segment of local control and grass roots democracy goodbye forever in California.

I live in the Union Elementary School District, and I am deeply concerned over the current situation. Here the board of Trustees and the teachers are engaged in a soul searching justification of 62 cents tax increase to support next year's operation without degrading the educational program.

In my opinion, the state legislation has left us with the following course of action:

1. Levy whatever taxes we need to support our local school program for the next year.

2. Work with school organizations at the state level to enact legislation which will bring about a flexible and adequate state equalization program in the years to come.

3. Work with our legislators to get the unification legislation repealed.

4. Support our local school board in its efforts to do the best education job possible at the least possible cost for the young people in our community and state.

Equalization for public schools is not a new concept in California; the only thing new about equalization is its misuse by power-hungry politicians.

Sincerely yours,
William J. Homan

Heavy holiday traffic concerns Highway Patrol

California's Highway Patrol Commissioner, Bradford M. Crittenden, reports that Highway Patrol officers throughout the state would do their utmost to assist Memorial Day weekend drivers through a safe holiday period.

"But these officers can't do it all alone," emphasized the commissioner. "It will still be up to the driver himself to assure a safe holiday weekend.

"Our officers will be on the lookout for excessive speed and other infractions of the rules of the road that traditionally lead to accidents, and will stop these where they see them," said Crittenden.

"But the driver must take it upon himself to drive courteously, carefully and lawfully at all times, in order to make a success of this effort toward a safe holiday."

Crittenden declined to predict how many people would be killed and injured on California highways during the long weekend, but said he could predict injury and possibly death as a potential each time the rules of the road were broken or in cases of error in driving judgment.

"I know our officers will do their part to alleviate the situation," concluded Crittenden. "Now, if California drivers do their part, we will have a safer Memorial Day weekend."

Letters to the Editor

ASKS FOR HELP

Dear Editor,

We, as parents of a retarded boy residing at Porterville State Hospital, are most interested in the work and good will that has been accomplished in the name of the retarded by parents and friends which is about to be undone if the State of California continues along their present party line.

There is planned an $8,000,000 expenditure to provide facilities on Agnews State Hospital grounds for the Department of Rehabilitation program for the Retarded.

This sounds like a tremendous step forward by the state until you investigate and determine where the funds are coming from, as well as their use.

The State of California will receive federal funds that were to be used for the construction of non-profit work - shops for the handicapped (all the handicapped). There are over 100 workshops for the handicapped in California.

We have been informed that it is planned to siphon off these funds to make up the $8,000,000, for us at only one facility. This will deprive these workshops of sorely needed operating funds so the retarded may reap all the benefits. What name is then going to leave a bad taste in people's mouths?

This is also a complete turnout for the state's philosophy in placing these individuals in the community near their homes in the community sponsored facilities.

To fill the 500 bed facility, they will have to draw from the community since the make-up of the state hospitals is mostly the profoundly retarded who cannot be habilitated to the level of the sheltered workshop.

If you feel as strongly about this as we do, the mishandling of funds which seriously affect all the handicapped, please let your feelings be known by writing to Governor Brown with a copy to Mr. Warren Thompson, director of rehabilitation, now!

Please help us to inform the public.

Sincerely,
Mr. and Mrs. W. Scholten

Police find marijuana

Two Campbell youths are being held by Santa Clara County Juvenile authorities on charges of using narcotics.

One of the teenagers, on probation from Juvenile Hall, was discovered to be sick and in a semi-conscious condition by his mother, who called county officers. Following interrogation by Campbell police the boy admitted he had obtained marijuana cigarettes from another youth.

A search warrant was obtained and police searched the youth's home where they found 19 marijuana cigarettes hidden in the pillow case of his bed. An investigation is continuing by Campbell Police.

CUB SCOUTS

Cubmaster Dewey King, of Cub Scout Pack 330, San Tomas School, proudly stepped forward to receive a Blue Ribbon for Proficiency awarded to the Pack at the Santa Clara County Scout-O-Rama, May 14.

A display, prepared by the Pack, included a simulated rocket ship that could be entered by visitors.

On display inside were specimens from the Moon brought back from an imaginary trip into Outer Space. Samples of moon dust and moon flowers were especially interesting.

Also on display was the Race Track used by the Pack last month for the Pinewood Derby. The Cubs operated the track and raced cars throughout the day.

Members of the Pack were especially pleased with the award as this makes the second Blue Ribbon the Pack has earned at the Scout-O-Rama. Pack 330 has only participated in three Scout-O-Ramas.

Congratulations Pack 330!!

Grass Roots

COLORFUL FOUNDATION PLANTS

There are few more challenging areas for the gardener than that around the base of his house -- the foundation planting, as nurserymen call it. This is often a no-man's land in the overall garden picture; a land of overgrowth and underplanting where a few evergreens have both solved and created problems.

Yet, if it presents a challenge it also offers potential satisfaction. A well-planted foundation is the face which passersby see and by which they usually judge the charm of a given house.

There is no one plant or family of plants which solves the foundation problem, but one that comes near to doing so is the India Hawthorn. This woodsy shrub is a handsome addition to the garden year round -- its delicate spring blossoms of pink, rose or pinkish-white lingering into summer in some cases.

The India Hawthorns are ideally suited to most California climates and, according to the California Association of Nurserymen, are very easy to care for. The pink-flowered varieties "Springtime" and "Pink Cloud" are earliest, starting their bloom in late winter.

The variety "Enchantress" starts and ends its rose-flowered parade a bit later. There are several others, some of them worth the gardener's attention.

Another family that conforms to the landscaper's ideal of a low-growing anchor for the house wall is the juniper family. These are non-blooming shrubs but they make up for a lack of flower color with variations in the color of their foliage, which can be deep green or silvery or flecked with yellow.

BANK MANAGER

Theodore F. Von Berckefeldt has been promoted to manager and Ignatius M. Bua to assistant manager of Wells Fargo Bank's Camden-Hillsdale Office in San Jose, according to K. Stanley Thompson, vice president in charge of the Peninsula Division.

The officers will assume their duties Monday, June 13, when the new branch opens for business at 1820 Hillsdale Avenue.

OLD WEST COACH

The magic of the old West and Gold Rush days will fill the air in Milpitas on Memorial Day, Monday, May 30, when Wells Fargo Bank's authentic, century-old stagecoach joins the fifth annual Frontier Days Parade.

The celebration begins Thursday, May 26, and ends with the parade at 2 p.m., Monday. More than 15,000 spectators are expected to view the two-hour long march from Convoy Way and Curtis Avenue down Main Street to its dispersal point on Weller Lane.

WINNER--Al La Plante, New York Life agent in Campbell and an active worker in the Campbell Chamber of Commerce, won the C. of C. ambassador of the month award for April for obtaining the most members for the C. of C. Coincidentally, the runner-up for the award was Ken Mantle, associated with La Plante here for New York Life.

Gubser says law now is unfair

Support of a minimum wage for agricultural labor which would apply equally to all farmers has been announced by Congressman Charles S. Gubser (R-Calif.).

The Gilroy lawmaker has prepared an amendment to the minimum wage legislation now under consideration by the House of Representatives. The Gubser amendment would eliminate exemption from the minimum wage for farmers who employ in any three month period.

"This provision of the bill is discriminatory against employees and employers alike," Gubser said.
